IMANAGER

Among other things, iManager lets you send and receive mail from any computer anywhere, so long as it is connected to the Internet.

Start your web browser, usually Internet Explorer, and go to “<http://imanager.mypcpro.com>” by typing that text in the address area of the browser

Log in using your account name, which will probably differ from your Email address, and your password. Note, your password is case-sensitive.

Click on “Mail Manager”. The interface is fairly intuitive. You can perform most Email activities here, including an “autoresponder” which will automatically reply to messages while you are away from Email access for a while.

You may want to populate the address book with important Email addresses before you leave for a trip.

This service puts you right into your mailbox. Any incoming Email you leave here will be available to you when you run your standard Email program.

The Email we handle for you is protected from viruses by our server-based CLAM antivirus software. It is also protected from spam through our server-based SpamAssassin software. When SpamAssassin finds a message it determines to be spam, it adds the text string “SPAM” to the beginning of the subject of the message. You can build message rules in your Email program to handle this automatically if you wish. There are instructions on how to do this on the Internet.

We recommend and ask that you stay out of the other areas of iManager.

Please remember to make notes of any changes you make. Avoid anything that you do not understand and be sure to test the changes you make.

Coastal Computer Systems is not responsible for any problems iManager might cause you. The information in this note is presented “as is”. Coastal Computer Systems will not accept any liability or responsibility for its use.
